NONG KHAI

Nong Khai is a border town on the bank of the Mekong River. This province is a gateway to Vientiane, the capital of the Lao People's Democratic Republic (Lao PDR.), with a friendship bridge linking between the two countries. The history of Nong Khai dates back to over 200 years ago. Initially, this riverside area was spotted with small towns; namely, Phran Phrao, Wiang Khuk, Pakho, and Phai (Ban Bueng Khai). At present, traces of ancient places have been found in temples along the Mekong River on the route Tha Bo – Si Chiang Mai. During the reign of King Rama III of the Rattanakosin era, Chao Anuwong, the ruler of Vientiane, staged a rebellion. King Rama III appointed Chao Phraya Ratchathewi to lead an army to attack Vientiane. The army won with the important forces supported by Thao Suwothanma (Bunma), the ruler of Yasothon, and Phraya Chiangsa. The king, therefore, promoted Thao Suwo to be the ruler of a large town to be established on the right bank of the Mekong River. The location of Ban Phai was chosen for the town called Nong Khai, which was named after a very large pond to the west.

Nong Khai is 615 km. from Bangkok, covering an area of around 7,332 sq km. This province has the longest distance along the Mekong River; measuring 320 km. The area is suitable for agriculture and freshwater fishery. It is also a major tourist attraction where visitors can easily cross the border into Laos. There are temples, culture and folk ways of life, which are interesting. Hotel accommodation is available and comfortable. There are various kinds of food and souvenir products. By all these charms, people have been drawn to visit this riverside town.

ATTRACTIONS

Amphoe Mueang Nong Khai

Prap Ho Monument (อนุสาวรีย์ปราบฮ่อ)

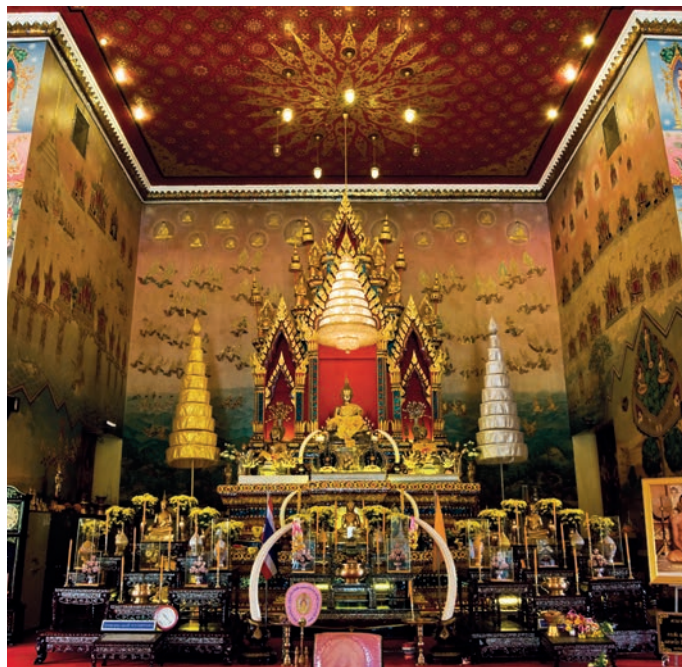

is located in front of the old city hall. The cremated bones of those who lost their lives in the suppression of the Ho in 1886 have been contained inside the monument which was built by an order of Luang Prachaksinlapakhom, the suppression commander, to honour the good deeds of those who sacrificed their own lives for the nation. There are inscriptions in Chinese, English, Laotian and Thai on all four directions of the monument. A worshipping ceremony and a fair to celebrate the monument are held every year on 5 March.

Prap Ho Monument

is a royal temple, located on Pho Chai Road in the Mueang Nong Khai Municipality. Luangpho Phra Sai, a sacred Buddha image of the town which is respected by the people of Nong Khai, is housed here. This Buddha image sitting cross-legged, which was cast from bright yellow gold in the posture of subduing Mara, has graceful features. According to legend, three daughters of the King of Lan Chang had three Buddha images cast and named each to associate with their names: Phra Soem, Phra Suk, and Phra Sai to the eldest, middle, and youngest siblings, respectively. Originally, the three images were housed in Vientiane. In the reign of King Rama III, they were invited to Nong Khai by boat. On the way to Nong Khai, Phra Suk was drowned by a storm. Phra Soem and Phra Sai were invited to house in Nong Khai. Later on, in the reign of King Rama IV, Phra Soem was taken to Bangkok. Phra Sai is still housed at Wat Pho Chai in Nong Khai. Every year on the full moon day in the seventh lunar month, the people of Nong Khai always hold a rocket merit-making fair or Bun Bang Fai to worship Phra Sai at Wat Pho Chai. For more details, please call Tel: 0 4241 1128, 0 4242 0747.

Tha Sadet Market (ตลาดท่าเสด็จ) is located along the Mekong River in the Mueang Nong Khai Municipality. This is a source of products from Indochina and East Europe, including dried food, processed food, and utensils, such as electric appliances, clothes, watches, kitchenware, etc. It is open daily from 07.00 - 18.30 hrs. Many visitors, both foreign and Thai, come to see and purchase products for sale here. Furthermore, this is a checkpoint for local people to cross the border into Laos, while visitors in general have to go through the Thai – Lao Friendship Bridge checkpoint.

Phrathat Nong Khai or Phrathat Klang Nam (พระธาตุหนองคาย หรือ พระธาตุกลางน้ำ) is a broken pagoda in the middle of the Mekong River. According to the legend of Urangkhathat (Phrathat Phanom), nine pieces of the Lord Buddha's foot relics were kept here. The underwater survey of the Archaeological Unit Region 7 found that the pagoda which has an indented square base of 17.2 m. on each side, with around 28.5 m. in height, was broken into three pieces. It was presumed that the pagoda was built in around the 15th - 17th Century since its form was mostly similar to Phrathat Bang Phuan. Section 70 of the Chronicles says that "Phrathat Mueang Nong Khai collapsed on the ninth day of the waxing moon in the ninth lunar month in Buddhist Era 2390." The river bank was eroded, so the pagoda is presently seen almost in the middle of the Mekong River.

Sala Kaeo Ku or Wat Khaek (ศาลาแก้วกู่ หรือ วัดแขก) is located 3 km. from the town of Nong Khai on the right side of the route to Phon Phisai. Presently, it is under the care of the Nong Khai Buddhist Association. This place which looks like an open museum of religious statues was created with an inspiration of Luangpu Bunluea Surirat who built it around 1978, out of his own belief that the teachings of all regions could be mixed together. Therefore, there are Buddha images in different attitudes, Hindu gods, Christian religious icons, as well as character figures from the Ramayana epic and folk legends. It is open daily during 06.00 a.m.- 18.00 p.m. Admission fee is 20 Baht per person.

Hat Chom Mani or Chom Mani Beach (หาดจอมมณี) is located around 2 km. from town, along the Mekong River. It is a sandy beach stretching about 200 m. and only emerging during the dry season. April is the appropriate time for a visit. There are so many visitors, both from town and nearby provinces, that it is called the "Pattaya of Isan." In addition, the Thai – Lao Friendship Bridge can be viewed clearly from the beach.

Tha Sadet Market

Sala Kaeo Ku or Wat Khaek

Thai – Lao Friendship Bridge

Thai – Lao Friendship Bridge (สะพานมิตรภาพไทย-ลาว) is a link over the Mekong River between Amphoe Mueang Nong Khai of Thailand and Tha Duea of the Lao People's Democratic Republic, the town which is around 20 km. from Vientiane the capital. It was built with cooperation from three countries: Australia, Laos, and Thailand. It is the bridge that strengthens the Thai – Lao relationship on cultural, economic and social aspects. Visitors in general are required to cross the border from Nong Khai to Vientiane via this channel. This bridge is 1,174 m. long and 12.7 m. wide, with two driving lanes and the middle space spare for the establishment of a train track. At a foot of the bridge, there is an immigration checkpoint.

Phrathat Bang Phuan (พระธาตุบังพวน) is located in Wat Phrathat Bang Phuan, Ban Don Mu, Tambon Phrathat Bang Phuan. This ancient pagoda which contains the Lord Buddha's relics has long been respected and worshipped by the people of Nong Khai. The original pagoda was built with bricks in the local style of architecture, featuring an Indian stupa of the same age as Phra Phathom Chedi. Then, its base collapsed in June 1970. The present pagoda which was renovated by the Fine Arts Department is an angular bell-shaped Chedi supported by a square relic chamber similar to that of a Prang, with a tapering finial crowned by an umbrella. Its lower base has five tiers and is 17.2 m. wide. The pagoda measures 34.25 m. from the ground. The people of Nong Khai hold a fair to worship the pagoda on the eleventh day of the waxing moon in the second lunar month every year. Within the temple compound, there are other interesting ancient places such as Sattamahasthan or the seven important places in the history of the Lord Buddha after his enlightenment, where he stayed seven days each in Bliss of Emancipation, and Sa Pappharanak or Sa Phaya Nak (pond of the Naga serpent) where in the past the water was taken to bathe a newly appointed ruler of the town as an auspicious gesture.

To get there: Phrathat Bang Phuan is 23 km. from town. Take Highway 2 (Nong Khai-Udon Thani) for around 11 km. and turn right to Highway 211 toward Tha Bo. Drive on to Km. 10, the temple is on your right.

Nong Khai Museum (พิพิธภัณฑสถานจังหวัดหนองคาย) is located at Nong Khai's first provincial hall, which was, initially, a provincial office built back in 1897. With the new budget allocation in 1929, a new provincial hall was built and the original one became the Nong Khai Museum in 2006. The Nong Khai Cultural Council was responsible for setting up this museum and appointed it to the Nong Khai Provincial Administration Organization. The Nong Khai Museum is directly under the Division of Education, Religion, and Culture.

This museum is a great source of local history and culture. Visitors will find a permanent exhibition comprising 7 rooms: Nong Khai Identity Room, Famous People Room, Archaeology Room, Ban Khok Khon Prehistoric Period Room, Cultural Diversity of Nong Khai Room, Nong Khai Lifestyle Room, and Royal Patronage Room. Hours of operation: 8.00 a.m.-4.00 p.m., except public holidays. For more information, Tel. 0 4241 3658.

Nong Khai Aquarium (พิพิธภัณฑ์สัตว์น้ำจังหวัดหนองคาย) is located within Khon Kaen University, Nong Khai Campus, which is 8 kilometres from the provincial city of Nong Khai, at No.112, Mu 7, Chaloem Phra Kiat Road, Tambon Nong Kom Ko. Marine lives including freshwater and marine fish are displayed. Opening hours: Tuesday-Sunday (except Monday), 9.00 a.m.-4.00 p.m. Admission is 50 Baht. For more information, Tel. 0 4241 5623, Fax. 0 4241 5699, or e-mail: aquarium@nkc.kku.ac.th.

The Five Buddhas -The Emerald Buddha images cast in bronze (พระพุทธเจ้าห้าพระองค์ พระแก้วมรกตหล่อสัมฤทธิ์)

These are located at the Five Buddhas Foundation, which is adjacent to the monastic residence of Wat Pa Sida Phra Ram Lak Rattanakhhot, Ban Sangkhom Phatthana, Tambon Si Kai. The Foundation is 22 kilometres from the provincial city of Nong Khai. To get there: proceed along Highway No. 212, which is the same route to Amphoe Phon Phisai. The entrance is on the right-hand side. The Five Buddhas are Kakusandha, Konagamana, Kassapa, Sakyamuni, and Maitreya.

Amphoe Tha Bo

Nong Khai Aquarium

Luangpho Phrachao Ong Tue (หลวงพ่อพระเจ้าองค์ตื้อ)

is housed in Wat Si Chomphu Ong Tue, Ban Nam Mong. This large Buddha image was cast from bronze by the royal artisans of the northern city and Lan Chang. Having graceful features, the 4 metre-high image is sitting cross-legged in the attitude of subduing Mara with a lap width of 3.29 m. It is a holy image which has gained much respect from the peoples on both of the banks of the Mekong River. According to a stone inscription, this image was built in 1562 by the royal command of Phra Chaiyachettha, King of Nakhon Wiang. The metals used included gold, brass, and silver, weighing a total of one Tue (an ancient scale of Isan) and it took seven years and seven months to finish the cast. The province has a fair to pay homage to Luangpho Phrachao Ong Tue every year on the full moon day in the fourth lunar month.

Wat Si Chomphu Ong Tue

To get there: From the town of Nong Khai, take Highway 2 to Udon Thani and switch to Highway 211 (Nong Khai – Tha Bo). At Km. 31, follow a road sign on the left to the temple for around 2 km.

Tobacco-making Village (หมู่บ้านทำยาสูบ) is along the route from Amphoe Mueang to Amphoe Tha Bo on Highway 211. The villagers grow tobacco plantations along the area parallel to the Mekong River. Here, there are picturesque views of nature.

Freshwater Fishery Village (หมู่บ้านประมงน้ำจืด) is located in Tambon Kong Nang on the Tha Bo – Si Chiang Mai route. The villagers here have freshwater fishery as a profession. Freshwater species of fish raised in their farms are Pla Taphian, Pla Nai, Pla Nuan Chan, Pla Yisok Thet, Pla Klet Ngoen, Pla Hua To, Pla Duk Thet, etc. Their produce is delivered for sale in Bangkok, the North and Isan regions.

Krayo Pastry-making Village (หมู่บ้านทำแผ่นกระยอ) is located on the route from Nong Song Hong to Amphoe Tha Bo. Here, bamboo trays are seen with Krayo pastry being sun-dried along the roadsides. Krayo pastry is used for Vietnamese food such as Popia (spring rolls) and Naem Nueang (wrap of pork and vegetables with spicy sauce). Krayo pastry is an export product as well.

Amphoe Si Chiang Mai

Phra Sutham Chedi, Wat Aranyabanphot (พระสุธรรมเจดีย์ วัดอรัญญาบรพต) is located on the Si Chiang Mai – Sangkhom Road, Tambon Ban Mo. Relics of the Lord Buddha are enshrined in this Chedi which also serves as a museum. The Chedi was constructed by the Electricity Generating Authority of Thailand as a tribute to Luangpu Rian Worolapho, a religious master of many followers. An annual merit-making fair is held at the temple in January.

Phra Sutham Chedi, Wat Aranyabanphot

is located at Ban Thai Charoen, Tambon Phra Phutthabat. The temple compound is spacious, clean and shady with various species of plants amidst tranquility. Its area on one side borders the Mekong River where a scenic view can be seen. Originally, this place was a Dharma practice place of Luangpu Thet Thetrangsi, a famous meditation master of Isan, who initiated it as a Dharma practice centre for Buddhist monks, nuns and pilgrims. After his death, a Chedi was built to enshrine his remains. Inside the temple, there is a statue of Luangpu Thet on display with the eight requisites (the three robes, the bowl, a razor, a needle, the girdle and a water-strainer) and his biography. For more information, Tel. 08 6861 9697, 08 2841 4883.

To get there: Wat Hin Mak Peng is 75 km. from town. Take Highway 211 (Nong Khai – Si Chiang Mai). The temple is on your right.

Wat Hin Mak Peng

Namtok Wang Nam Mok (น้ำตกวังน้ำมอก)

Located to the north of Ban Wang Nam Mok village, Tambon Phra Phutthabat, this 30-metre-high waterfall is accessible by car. From Tambon Si Chiang Mai Municipality, take the route leading to Amphoe Sangkhom for 28 kilometres. Twenty metres prior to Wat Hin Mak Peng, turn left into the road leading to Ban Wang Nam Mok (7 kilometres). It is blessed with spectacular cliffs, stream terraces, a large basin and rock terrace down below, where swimming is possible from June to October.

Ban Wang Nam Mok provides a homestay and trekking service. Visitors will enjoy the welcoming ceremony of the Bai Si Su Khwan ritual and folk dinner. Some of the local dishes include bamboo shoot soup, pineapple salad, and deep-fried fish with herbs. For more information, contact Mr. Tinnaphop, Tel. 08 6232 5300, 08 0462 5677, 0 4242 3783.

Amphoe Sangkhom

is located in Ban Pha Tang, Mu 1, Tambon Pha Tang. This waterfall has its stream flowing along the rocky ground. There is a pond where visitors can swim. Tiers of small cascades line below for a distance of around 30 m. before merging with the Mekong River. The time to visit when the waterfall holds plenty of water is between June and October. The surrounding area is an arboretum with a thick forest.

To get there: Take the Nong Khai – Si Chiang Mai – Sangkhom route (Highway 211) past Ban Chai Charoen to Ban Pha Tang (Highway 2186). At Km. 74, around 11 km. before reaching the town, Than Thong Waterfall is on your right, while the car park is on the left.

Namtok Than Thip (น้ำตกธารทิพย์) is a high and beautiful waterfall amidst a lush forest. It has three tiers. The first tier is around 30 m. high and its long white body of water rushes into a pond below. The second tier of about 100 m. high can be reached through a marked trail. The third tier is around 70 m. high with water flowing all year round, especially in the rainy season there will be plenty of water.

To get there: Drive along Highway 211. At Km. 97-98, follow a road sign to turn left and go on for around 2 km. (It is about 13 km. from Amphoe Sangkhom.) From the parking area, walk another 100 m.

Wat Tham Si Mongkhon or Wat Tham Din Phiang

(วัดถ้ำศรีมงคล หรือ วัดถ้ำดินเพียง)

A legend has it that this cave was a pilgrim trail of a Laotian monk, who walked from Lao PDR. to Thailand instead of passing via the boat route. Only virtuous men or monks with supernormal powers could see the path in this cave. According to the belief of the villagers, the cave resembles the underwater world of the naga. It has high humidity with water running all year round. There are stacking rocks, in which some of them resemble coffins. To explore the cave, a tour guide is recommended.

To get there: From the provincial city of Nong Khai, proceed via Highway No. 211 along the Mekong River for 96 kilometres. At Ban Dong Tong, Tambon Pha Tang, follow a road sign on the left to the temple for 14 kilometres.

Wat Pha Tak Suea (วัดผาตากเสื้อ)

This mountaintop temple offers a serene commanding view of the livelihood of both Thais and Laotians. Visitors will experience the natural surroundings within the temple. The path along the cliff is accessible for a walk of the scenic landscape.

To get there: From the provincial city of Nong Khai, proceed via Highway No. 211 along the Mekong River for 96 kilometres. At Ban Dong Tong, Tambon Pha Tang, follow a road sign on the left to the temple for 7 kilometres. The Transport Company Limited provides a Nong Khai-Loei bus service going via Amphoe Sangkhom during 6.00 a.m.-4.00 p.m. The journey takes 2 hours. Then, take the local transportation Song Thaeo departing once a day to Wat Tham Din Phiang and Wat Pha Tak Suea. For more information, contact the Tambon Pha Tang Sub-district Administration Organisation, Tel. 0 4290 1013, 0 4242 1899.

Amphoe Rattana-wapi

Nong Khai Agricultural Research and Development Center (ศูนย์วิจัยและพัฒนาการเกษตรหนองคาย) is located on the Nong Khai – Bueng Kan route (Highway 212). From the town of Nong Khai, drive on for around 63 km. Then, follow a road sign to turn right at Ban Na Yang and go on for another 200 m. Being not far from the Mekong River, this area is very moist and various species of plants have been grown here for an experiment to see their development. Visitors can walk the area to view groves of fruits, cashew nut, etc., and local plants for conservation, such as Makiang which is used for making wine and juice. There are also furrows of local vegetables, such as Krachiao, Phakkat Ya, Som Mong, Phak Wan Pa, etc., which are eaten with Namphrik (spicy sauce) or Lap (spicy dish of minced meat) by the people of Isan. Besides, local herbs and more than 100 species of fragrant flowers are gathered here. During the cool season, colourful temperate flowers will be grown as well. This is an interesting place of agro-tourism. For further information, call 0 4242 1257, 0 4242 1679.

EVENTS AND FESTIVALS

Prap Ho Monument Fair (งานอนุสาวรีย์ปราบฮ่อ) Being held at the Prap Ho Monument around the month of March every year. Activities in the fair include shows, games, and booths of goods at reasonable prices.

Isan – Nong Khai Songkran Fair (งานเย็นทั่วหล้ามหาสงกรานต์อีสาน-หนองคาย) Being held at Wat Pho Chai on Songkran Day every year. Luangpho Phra Sai and important Buddha images from other temples will be put on a procession to go around town for the general public to pay homage to and bathe the holy images. There are booths of local products at reasonable prices.

Bun Bang Fai Fair (งานบุญบังไฟ) Being held in the sixth lunar month (May) every year. There is a rocket contest to worship Phaya Thaen or god of the rain. It is a way the local people do to ask for rain. A temple fair will be organised in the grounds of Wat Pho Chai. Rocket shooting will be done on the field around 10 km. from Wat Pho Chai.

Bang Fai Phaya Nak (บังไฟพญานาค) This extraordinary miracle always occurs at the beginning of the full moon night in the eleventh lunar month (End of Buddhist Lent). It can be seen along the Mekong River in the districts of Mueang, Phon Phisai, Tha Bo, Si Chiang Mai and Sangkhom. Bang Fai Phaya Nak is a term used for red and pinkish fire balls, which according to belief, belong to Phaya Nak or the great serpent of the underwater world. On the day marking the End of Buddhist Lent, a great number of people come to witness this phenomenon.

Tak Bat Thewo and Thai - Lao Friendship Boat Race (งานตักบาตรเทโวและแข่งเรือมิตรภาพไทย-ลาว) Being held during the end of the Buddhist Lent festival every year. People come to offer alms to Buddhist monks in the morning. Long boat competitions, which the Thai and Lao sides will take turn to host, will be held on the Mekong River during the day.
